disinformation

hey Johnny and Ro --

Is there any inhouse expertise within the DG center on countering disinformation? SP pushing hard for us to get an interagency process going on how the USG can get a LOT better at this and I am trying to get a sense of what our capacity looks like to be a thought leader here.

Adding Meral, who I think would be our relevant team lead on this, and Diana who's been working the interagency process on Information Integrity; there are others we could add as well. Yes we have some capability, and yes it would be great to help the USG radically up its game on this. Maybe a meeting among all of us would be in order, where you can elaborate on what SP said, and we can explain what we have in play?

+ Sophia, who is going to run point for the front office on this issue.

I have been offline quite a bit for the past several days dealing with COVID-related issues, and here's a summary from Gideon of SP's thinking on this from a meeting I missed last week.

"On the disinformation front -- this just came up quite extensively in small group again today. this isn't clearly bounded so part of this will be to figure out what we can usefully do. One piece of this will be understanding what USAID's capabilities are. So that probably means engaging the DRG and ITR folks (maybe others) to understand what we do in this space. And then it's probably a good idea to collect info on what we've actually done (if anything) in places like Ethiopia, Ukraine, and Nepal to counter disinformation. This would be mini-case studies to better understand what we do/ don't do. And then ultimately the bigger piece will be the interagency -- SP wants to engage Jake to set up a process on this."

Thanks, Colin. Dropping you to BCC

I think meeting to put together a plan is certainly in order. I have a number of open blocks Thursday and Friday and happy to propose some times if folks' calendars are up to date.

Hi all

Just dropping it down to the DRG folks for a moment. It's like people are reading our minds! Diana and I have been saying that we would really like to raise this to the Administrator's attention and I agree we need to loop in Josh and Lauren (CSM) in particular too. Eventually this really has to be more of a whole of Agency issue because mis/dis/malinformation (MDM) is impacting health, climate change, and economic growth portfolios and certainly the digital space too.

We (Johnny, Lauren, Josh, Diana and I) already planned to meet tomorrow and touch base on where we are on MDM approaches and where we think we need to go. We could then also brainstorm how to approach this ask so we can do a presentation to SP. Ro, I added you and David to that meeting. (Sorry I should have done so earlier!)

Thanks,
Meral

Sounds great on all - sorry if my somewhat ad hoc email jumped the gun. Doing this meeting with the FO next week is great, though, since there's suddenly covid in my house and I suspect this week (especially Thurs and Fri) will be a mess.

We'll need to punt to next week to do that -- so we'll find a time that works for everyone.

One piece of this will be understanding what USAID's capabilities are. So that probably means engaging the DRG and ITR folks (maybe others) to understand what we do in this space. And then it's probably a good idea to collect info on what we've actually done (if anything) in places like Ethiopia, Ukraine, and Nepal to counter disinformation. This would be mini-case studies to better understand what we do/ don't do. And then ultimately the bigger piece will be the interagency -- SP wants to engage Jake to set up a process on this."

Maybe a meeting among all of us would be in order, where you can elaborate on what SP said, and we can explain what we have in play?

Hi Sophia -- sorry for the delay. We're discussing the Mis/Disinformation portfolio with Johnny next week on Tuesday 25 at 10:30am. At this meeting, we'll be doing a bit more mapping of possibilities and options -- so it just depends if you would like to join as we discuss them or if you would prefer that we come with a few recommendations? If the latter, we can set up a time on Thursday or Friday of next week.

Hi Rosarie,

Thanks for reaching out. I'll plan to join the Tuesday huddle.

Have a great weekend

Sophia
